Malcom Lewis is the founder and Chief Executive Officer of Foxhole Consulting LLC. His primary responsibility is to ensure quality deliverables and actionable insights for our clients. Mr. Lewis defines and leads the priorities of Foxhole Consulting LLC. As a leader, he is appreciated by clients, partners, and colleagues.

Foxhole Consulting LLC is a Service Disabled Veteran Owned Small Business. Malcom is responsible for engagement with partners and prime contractors. The company's primary services are based on Security Consulting. We also offer peripherals, such as training, rising threat probabilities, and related plans, policies, and procedures. We also offer leadership programs, risk assessment and mitigation, and team building.

Mr. Lewis retired with the rank of Master Sergeant after 25 years of service and 7 combat tours. He is a disabled veteran with an M.S., in Homeland Security, Emergency and Disaster Management, and a TS/TSI Clearance. Malcom provided guidance, training, and mentorship to meet the Commanders' intent in the execution of command-level activities. Ceremonies and special events include but are not limited to a change of command ceremonies, retirement ceremonies, organizational day, and Continuity of Operation Plans (COOP). Served as the advisor to the Operations Officer; provided updated status reports and analysis of activities regarding personnel and all field training operations.

Before forming Foxhole Consulting LLC, Mr. Lewis carried out the duties as shift Supervisor for the Restricted Area Security (RAS) Guards, responsible for safeguarding government personnel, property, and technologies. Assigned under the authority of the Senior Commander at IMCOM-supported installations. Directed personnel's response to threats of unlawful entry, sabotage, espionage, theft, accidental or willful damage, and destruction.

Mr. Lewis also managed the performance of RAS subordinates; Set and publish schedules and assignments, and aligned subordinates' skills to meet current threats, concerns, or priorities. Enforce regulations and guidelines relating to Airfield protection and security systems. Receive and review daily reports from subordinates, looking for irregularities and corrective actions.
